Dear Sir/Madam at Experian,

I write to you today to highlight certain inaccuracies I have discovered on my personal credit report.

As detailed under the provision of 15 U.S. Code 1681e (b), any consumer reporting agency is expected to adhere to reasonable procedures for ensuring the maximum possible accuracy of the information reported about any specified individual.

Moreover, 15 U.S. Code 1681i (5) points out that should any piece of information disputed by a consumer prove to be either inaccurate or impossible to verify after a reinvestigation, it must be promptly deleted or suitably altered from the consumer's file. The law also requires that the furnisher of said information be notified promptly about any modifications or deletions.

As nothing is being disputed at this time, I would like to inform you that there are no specific personal details, accounts or inquiries that I wish removed from my credit report.

However, I seek your particular assistance in ensuring that my credit report is accurate and up-to-date at all times.

Thank you for your immediate attention to this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Emmanuel
